MORTON IS RE-ELECTED TO THE SENATE; ROMNEY IN MICHIGAN; NIXON HAS LOST

Democrats In Firm Control Of Congress; GOP Gains

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats won firm control of Congress again today in an unexpectedly heavy outpouring of ballots that created a checkered election.

Republicans displaced Democratic governors in the pivotal states of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan — all powerful bases for strengthening the party's 1964 bid for the presidency. They also enlarged their beachhead in the once solid South.

Democratic candidates in turn won major races in such traditionally GOP strongholds as New Hampshire, Vermont, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Incomplete returns from Tuesday's off-year election indicated the Democrats would enlarge their already top-heavy majority in the Senate. They also had a majority of the 435 House seats.

Three GOP Houseful
Three Republican presidential possibilities for 1964 coasted into governorships. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was reelected in New York. Some of the gains were taken off his prospects, however, because his majority was far less than his admirers had expected.

In Michigan, George Romney, a political newcomer who gained a national image with his compact car, ended 14 years of Democratic rule in that state. He unseated Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson.

William W. Scrantom, a GOP freshman congressman who made the race reluctantly, won an impressive governorship victory in Pennsylvania. He defeated Richardson Dilworth, former mayor of Philadelphia.

In California, Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 Republican presidential nominee, was trailing Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in still inconclusive returns. Defeat would mean the end of the political road for Nixon.

President's Brother Wins
Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of President

Kennedy, was an easy victor as the Democratic senatorial nominee in Massachusetts. He defeated Republican George Cabot Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, the 1960 GOP nominee for vice president.

The later congressional standings looked like this:

In 39 Senate contests, Democrats had won 22 seats and led in 3 other races. With their 43 holdover members, this gave them an indicated total of 68.

Republicans had won 12 Senate seats and were leading in 2 other contests. With their 18 holdovers, the indicated GOP total was 32.

Before the election, the Senate lineup was 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans.

The returns early today gave the following indicated line-up in the House in the new Congress:

Indicated Previous
New House House
Democrats 258 263
Republicans 177 174

New Control Figures
Democrats actually had won 236 seats and were leading for 22.

Republicans had won 103 and led in 24. With the House dropping to its permanent size of 435 seats, the majority needed for control was 218.

The big question still to be answered was whether the new House would be friendlier than the previous chamber to such conservative Kennedy programs as Medicare and aid to education.

One thing was clear. The party of the president in power had done better than in any off-year election since 1934 during the first term of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In contests for the 35 governorships at stake, Democrats elected 15 and led in seven other races. The Republicans elected 12 and led for one other.

In these contests, Republicans had displaced five Democratic governors and threatened to replace another. The Democrats had displaced five GOP governors and threatened two others.

The first precinct to report in Massachusetts showed Lodge ahead, but Ted Kennedy was winning going away within an hour after the polls closed.

In the Republican bastion of New Hampshire, where feuds have rocked the GOP, Democrat Thomas J. McIntyre won a four-year vacancy in the Senate over Republican Rep. Perkins Bass.

Democrat John W. King won the governorship from Republican John Pillsbury. At the same time Republican Sen. Norris Cotton was reelected.

First Democratic Governor
In neighboring Vermont, Gov. F. Ray Keyser was defeated by Philip H. Hoff. He becomes the first Democratic governor in the state's history.

The Republicans matched the Vermont upset by electing Henry Bellmon as the first Republican governor in the history of Oklahoma, but then found they had lost the governorship in normally Republican Iowa. Gov. Norman A. Erbe of Iowa failed to win

Belief In God Is Topic Of Dr. Courtenay

"Belief in God" was Dr. Walter R. Courtenay's topic in the general convocation yesterday morning at Murray State College, which began the Religious Emphasis Week series at the college.

In keeping with the general theme "Beliefs That Demand Allegiance," Dr. Courtenay spoke last night on "Belief in Man." Additional sessions will be held this morning and tomorrow morning at 10:30, and tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 in the Student Union Ballroom.

This morning's topic will be "Belief in Grace," tonight's, "Belief in Faith," and tomorrow morning's "Belief in Service." The conclusion tomorrow night will be "Belief in Eternal Life."

"Belief in God," Dr. Courtenay said in yesterday morning's session, "is the belief that really demands all. The Bible nor the Church tries to prove the existence of God." He said that "belief in God is the groundwork for all areas of life."

Dr. Courtenay stated that "a Christian is not merely a deist, but a particular kind of deist. He is God-molded." Dr. Courtenay's own definition of a Christian is "a believer who not only believes in God, but is also in love with Christ." It is Christ who enables us to understand God.

"As a Christian," Dr. Courtenay said, "I must say that I not only believe in God, but in God the Father, Almighty."

Dr. Courtenay made these affirmations: God is a personal God. He is not a principle of matter, but One who thinks, feels, and makes decisions. In that sense we are created in His image.

God is all powerful and purposeful. He is profound. He is too deep for even the greatest minds, yet He can be discovered by the meek and the open-minded. God is perfect.

Morton Margin Over The State Is 37,000

By JOSEPH VARILLA

United Press International
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky's unpredictable voters, despite numbering two Democrats to one Republican, Tuesday sent Republican Thorton B. Morton back to the U. S. Senate for a second term.

With 2,959 of the state's 3,084 precincts counted, Morton had 413,738 votes to 376,871 for Democratic Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt.

Although Morton built up most of his majority in Republican Jefferson County Louisville and in the mountainous 5th District, he ran well throughout the state and outdistanced an expected Democratic majority in western Kentucky.

The victory was interpreted as a blow to President John F. Kennedy who came to Kentucky twice to campaign for Wyatt.

Disappointment in West
The analysis said the key to the win was Wyatt's poor showing in the western Kentucky Democratic stronghold. He got less than 15,000 majority in the 1st District. In 1954, the last time a Democrat won a Senate race in Kentucky, the late Alben W. Barkley came out of the district with a 35,000-vote bulge.

In the 2nd District, also in western Kentucky, Morton and Wyatt ran neck-and-neck with the Republican coming out ahead by 1,000 votes. Barkley won the district by 17,000 votes.

In trying to determine the reason for the poor showing in what was considered a stronghold, some Wyatt supporters pointed to next May's Democratic gubernatorial primary. With the candidates trying to get an early start, the primary was dropped into the middle of the Senate race.

It resulted in a lack of complete unity between the two opposing factions of the Democratic party especially after an ad appeared in a western Kentucky paper in the final week of the campaign. It declared that a vote for Wyatt was a vote for Ned Breathitt, the state administration's candidate for governor.

Happy's Supporters Angry
That irritated supporters of former Gov. A. B. Chandler, Breathitt's opponent and a foe of the state administration.

But despite the whispered charges against the Chandlerites, Democrats conceded that Morton built up a potent organization throughout the state.

In electing Morton, Kentuckians maintained their curious record of voting for Republicans in races for national offices and voting for Democrats for state offices.

Morton's big 40,000-vote majority in Jefferson County helped elect M. G. Gene Snyder to the U. S. House of Representatives from the first district. Snyder, who walls himself a Goldwater conservative, whipped incumbent Democrat Frank W. Burke, a New Frontiersman.

Also elected to the House were Democratic incumbent Frank Chelf and Carl Perkins. Four other incumbents — three Democrats and one Republican — were without opposition.

Morton Hails Victory
Morton called his triumph "the greatest victory the GOP has ever won in Kentucky."

Asked if it meant that Kentucky was becoming a Republican state, the senator-said he had never admitted it was anything but Republican. Late in the night, he sent a telegram to Wyatt, saying he planned to work closely with the state administration for the next six years.

The turnout was very near the 800,000 that both candidates predicted. (Continued on Page 3)

Tom Webster Visitor During Event Here

One prominent visitor to Murray last week was not mentioned in an article which was written concerning the honoring of two Tappan sales representatives last Saturday.

The visitor to Murray was Tom Webster, Product Manager for the free standing range manufactured by Tappan here in Murray.

The two sales representatives, George Emerson and Gerry Corson were honored for selling ranges far in excess of anticipated sales. The ranges they sell are mostly made in Murray, and Mr. Webster is the Product Manager for this particular gas range. Frequently a visitor to Murray, Tom Webster is lavish in his praise of Murray and the reputation that he and others of the Tappan organization receive on visiting here.

Nixon Concedes Defeat To Brown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who led from the start, surged to victory today in his battle with Richard M. Nixon for governor of California.

Long after the jubilant 57-year-old Democratic incumbent had claimed victory, Nixon conceded Brown's re-election in a formal statement issued from his Beverly Hills hotel headquarters.

It was the second staggering political defeat in two years for the 49-year-old former vice president. First, he lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy in 1960 by the narrowest of margins. Then, today, he found himself on the short end of votes by an even wider margin against Brown.

Nixon's concession took the form of a congratulatory telegram to Brown which was read to a news conference by Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary.

Calloway Gives Wyatt Margin Of 1191; 15,000 In Purchase

Making a strong bid to establish a two party system in Western Kentucky, Republicans held Wilson Wyatt's margin in this normal "Gibraltar of Democracy" to slightly over 15,000 votes in the general election yesterday.

Calloway County gave Wyatt a majority of 1191 votes in an election that saw 6490 votes cast.

Wyatt polled a total of 3842 while Morton tallied 2648 votes. Congressman Frank A. Stubblefield received a token vote of 4919. He was unopposed.

In the City School Board election, the three candidates, all unopposed received votes as follows: William C. Adams 836, Bethel Richardson 940, Dr. C. C. Lowry 1101.

In the County School Board race, three persons were seeking the post in the Liberty District. This is the Almo-Faxon School District. Charles Burken won the post with the vote as follows: Charles M. Burken 459, Darwin L. Roberts 163.

In the Hazel District, Joe Johnston was unopposed and received a token vote of 178.

Infant White Child's Body Found Near Lake

The body of a premature white baby boy, wrapped in plastic material, was found in the Cypress Creek area of Kentucky Lake Sunday morning.

The tiny body was dragged into the yard of a resident of that area by a dog which had apparently found it in undergrowth nearby.

Henry County Sheriff Ralph Fields and Coroner Eldon Graham were called to investigate the discovery, which was reminiscent of a similar discovery made in Paris more than a decade ago when the body of an infant was found at a roadside where it had been abandoned at the city garbage dump.

Sheriff Fields, who did not identify the resident in whose yard the dog had dragged the infant body, said the remains had been wrapped in clear plastic and then in an additional covering of heavier white plastic material. It had apparently been tossed from a vehicle or laid in the underbrush about 3 miles west of U. S. Highway 79, off the Cypress Creek Road toward Kentucky Lake.

The sheriff and coroner made a search of cabins and cottages in the area in an effort to determine whether or not the birth had taken place anywhere in the immediate area of the discovery, but found no such signs.

A medical examination of the little body indicated that the infant had been carried by its mother for 7 to 7½ months. It weighed 2 and a quarter pounds.

After the medical examination at Henry County General Hospital, the infant was buried by local undertakers in potters field. Although sheriff's officers are searching for the person responsible for discarding the infant body, little hope was held that the culprit would be found. The

Loyd Workman Dies At Home Last Night

Loyd Workman, in the restaurant business in Murray for many years, died last night from a "self-inflicted gun shot wound" in the left chest in his bedroom at his home from North 18th Street between 11:30 and 12:00 midnight, according to Calloway County Coroner Max Churchill.

Mr. Workman has been in ill health and had been depressed in recent weeks.

He and Mrs. Workman had just recently returned from a visit with their son in California.

Mr. Workman operated the Day and Nite Lunch on Main Street with his brother Fred for many years, selling to Trent Wells and others. Fred later opened Susie's Cafe in the National Hotel Building and Loyd bought in with him selling out just recently.

It was reported that Loyd had just bought back into the restaurant.

Survivors include his wife Velva, a son Kenneth Workman of San Francisco, California; his parents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Workman of North 16th Street; one sister Mrs. Leon Burken of Detroit; three brothers, Elmo Workman of Detroit, and Fred and L. D. of Murray.

Arrangements are incomplete at this time. Friends may call at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home until the funeral hour.

You could lose every cent you have by having the wrong insurance on your car or home!

After you have an accident, it may be too late to discover you don't have enough liability insurance. In the United States last year, hundreds of car owners, most of them average people who consider themselves good drivers, had individual liability judgments exceeding $100,000 rendered against them. How much liability insurance do you have?

After you have a fire, it's too late to wish your home insurance was up-to-date. If inflation has increased the worth of your home without your insurance being correspondingly increased, you may have to pay part of the loss out of your own pocket.

Protection Week

May we suggest you check up on your insurance right away? This week, November 4-10, is Protection Week, a time for car owners, home owners, and businessmen to make sure they're really protected by insurance.

We'll be glad to analyze your insurance—to appraise accurately the present worth of your home—without charge. Call us today.

reelection in a contest with Democrat Harold E. Hughes. In Ohio Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle was snubbed under by Republican state Auditor James A. Rhodes and failed to win reelection. In Colorado, Democratic Gov. Stephen L. R. McNichols was unseated by Republican John A. Love, a newcomer in politics.

Republicans also lost governorships in New Mexico and Hawaii. Gov. Edwin L. McInnes was defeated by Jack M. Campbell in New Mexico and Gov. William F. Quinn was defeated by John A. Burns in Hawaii.

In the Senate races, Sen. John A. Carroll, a liberal Democrat, lost his seat to Rep. Peter H. Dominick, a conservative Republican.

Hill Gets Scare
In Alabama, Republican James Martin gave veteran Democratic Sen. Lister Hill the scare of his life, but Hill finally squeaked through. Sen. Clin D. Johnson, D-S.C., whose seat was supposed to be in jeopardy from Republican newspaperman William D. Workman Jr. had an easier time winning reelection.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen won reelection in Illinois over Rep. Sidney R. Yates, despite Yates' early bulge in Chicago. Assistant Senate Republican Leader Thomas H. Kuchel had an easy time in California while Nixon, at the head of the ticket, was in trouble.

In Nebraska, Democratic Gov. Frank B. Morrison was reelected over Fred A. Seaton, who was secretary of interior during the Eisenhower administration.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., senior Republican in the Senate and on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, closed out 24 years of service by losing to Democrat Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson.

In the South, the GOP not only threw a scare into Hill but gained four House seats — one each in North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida and Texas. In the early round, Republican Jack Cox ran neck and neck with Democrat John B. Connally for the Texas governorship before Connally pulled away to victory.

Have Biggest Held
With 11 House seats now in the 11 states of the Old Confederacy, Republicans have more than they ever have held since the Reconstruction Era.

One Democrat defeated in the South was Rep. J. T. Rutherford of Texas, who had interceded at the Agriculture Department for Billie Sol Estes, the Texas promoter.

A major Republican casualty in the House was Rep. Walter H. Ford, of Minnesota, whose keynote speech electrified the 1960 Republican convention. He was beaten by Donald M. Fraser, a New Frontier Democrat.

dicted, but the outcome was not. Observers had expected that a large turnout would work in Wyatt's favor, but it obviously favored Morton.

Bitter Pill to Swallow
For Wyatt, the defeat was a bitter pill. When he withdrew from the three-way gubernatorial primary in 1960 to accept the second spot on a ticket headed by Gov. Bert Combs, it was generally accepted that he had his choice of running for U. S. senator this year or governor next year.

He chose the Senate and lost the prize. Wyatt was particularly disturbed about the showing in western Kentucky. He concentrated most of his campaign there and even reinitiated the Barkley election eve motorcade. But it was to no avail.

Netmen Move Indoors To Continue Practice; Two Courts Available

Murray State's tennis team, under Coach Chad Stewart, moved indoors Monday for its practice sessions.

Getting an early start in the defense of last year's OVC championship, the Thorghbreds are practicing at 6:30 p. m. in the gymnasium of the Carr Health Building.

For the first time the tennis men will have two courts with the addition of a new net set-up which will allow more players on the floor at one time, according to Coach Stewart.

The change from asphalt to the wood is quite a change because of the increased speed with which the ball comes off the surface, the coach explained.

On the hardwood there is a tendency for the ball to skid or slide rather than come up as it does on the outdoor courts. Because of this, he said, the swing is shortened indoors, and fast reactions play an even more vital role in the game.

Miss Eagle Attends Midwest Art Parley

Miss Clara Eagle, head of the art division, attended the Midwest College Art Conference Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Ohio State University.

Special programs and workshops in art history and studio-art work were held during the meeting.

"WE KNOW every move you made, Mr. Byrd," said Vic Varallo. "You saw that Duncan was an obvious scapegoat, and you watched him unobtrusively for a little while, got to know his schedule. I don't think your business is actually very flourishing, you had set, got hold of Duncan's pen for you, sliding it into a nice clean envelope as per instructions for any little personal O.K."
